There are a few heart winning images that make your weekend perfect. A video of a cow feeding four orphaned puppies is being shared widely and calming the senses of the people.

The short video was recorded by the bystander who couldn't help capturing the emotional sight before him. A couple of days, the news of a lioness adopting leopard cub had touched our hearts.

According to some accounts, the mother of the puppies might have died after giving birth and the four puppies were adopted by the cow who is seen feeding them.

The video was an instant hit on social media. Similar videos had surfaced recently on the internet where a pet dog and cat were seen showering each other with love. The video on twitter had won many hearts. The two species aren't known to be best of friends, but this was quite unique and the six-second video shows dog Maggie gently petting cat whose name is Pumpkin on her back.

Recently, another such rare news came from Gir Forest where a lioness adopted a one and half-month-old leopard cub after it got separated from its mother. The lioness was seen feeding the cub along with two of her own cubs and the forest staff captured it six days ago.
