The mum-of-one made sure to protect her face, shoulders and head by wearing a chic straw fedora, sunglasses and loose fitting purple and white print shirt.

Salma captioned the post: "Last days of 2020. Never been more grateful for being healthy and in contact with nature."

The American-Mexican film actress then wrote the same sentiments in Spanish.

The Hollywood star's 16.8million Instagram followers were quick to comment on the picture as she soaked up the sunshine.

The 54-year-old had her breakthrough role in the 2002 film Frida, as Mexican painter Frida Kahlo.

As well as producing the movie, Salma was nominated for Best Actress for the Academy Award, BAFTA Award, Golden Globe Award, and Screen Actors Guild Award for her part in the film.

The actress appeared in court earlier this year as a possible witness against Harvey Weinstein at his sex-crimes trial.

The Oscar-nominated star alleged the shamed Hollywood boss "tried to sink" her movie Frida.

Salma, who starred in and produced the 2002 biopic of Mexican artist Frida Kahlo, said: "As the producer on that film he hindered me in every way.

"He tried to sink the film and I had to do my best to go along, despite all his absurd requests and wanting to rewrite it."

“He wanted me to be sexier, he asked me to thin my eyebrows.

“And after I had refused to do all those things, he boycotted me as revenge. Yet that film went on to earn six Oscar nominations and won two.”

Salma believes speaking out against powerful people such as Weinstein will help others.

She added: “It’s important that we’re starting to talk about the representation of women and minorities in the film industry.”

Salma wed billionaire French businessman Francois-Henri Pinault, 58, in 2009, and the couple share a daughter, Valentina, 13.
