Rhian Sugden has stripped off all her clothes to pose completely naked in a provocative photoshoot.

The glamour model, 35, shows off her jaw-dropping curves as she sultrily gazes down the camera in new shots for May Contain Girl.

In one very racy image, Rhian puts on a busty display as she sits seductively on an office chair showing off her ample cleavage.

Oh my! Rhian Sugden has stripped off all her clothes to pose completely naked in a provocative photoshoot

Teasing fans on Instagram on Thursday night, the blonde bombshell shared a snap from the shoot.

Rhian wowed in the photo which saw her in the nude. Leaving little to the imagination, Rhian posed bent over and raised her leg to cover her modesty. Â

The model often shows off her incredible figure on social media but recently admitted to falling off the fitness bandwagon in an exclusive interview with MailOnline.

'I think I look fitter than I actually am. I have my mum to thank for good genes I think!' the glamour model said.

'When I feel good in myself mentally, I feel more confident. When I eat healthy and go to gym classes, I don't seem to have hang ups about how I look,' she explained.

'When I start to eat rubbish and overindulge on chocolate and wine I feel gross. I've fallen off the wagon recently, I need to get myself back into gear and feeling better.'

Rhian revealed she hasn't been 'to the gym for months' and confessed she'd 'probably pass out' should she have to run a mile.

'I'm desperate to get into a proper fitness routine just to feel better and tighten up a few squishy bits,' she went on to say.

'My go-to [exercise] is Reformer Pilates. I've started going once a week and I love it! My flexibility is quite good, I just need to up my cardio game.'
